Dying Matters

with Confortia and Pentiddy Natural Burials

at Pentiddy Woods, Pensilva

Sunday 19th May 2019, 11am - 3pm

It gives us great pleasure to invite you to an open day as part of National Dying Matters Week. The day will be an opportunity for us to explore together our choices around death and dying with the hope of bringing death back into the heart of our communities and empowering us to make the most of our (finite) lives.

Ele and Anthony Waters will lead a tour of Pentiddy Natural Burials 11am - 12pm to include the opening of the new wild flower burial site.

In the glade by the roundhouse there will be a wide variety of related information, specialists to talk to and examples of local sustainable coffins and shrouds and the roundhouse itself will be set up as a space for quiet reflection.

A Death Café (in the straw bale house) will be hosted by Confortia with cake & drinks. 1:30pm - 3pm. The Death Café offers an informal opportunity to chat about many different experiences and to ask questions that are hard to ask. It will be led by volunteers who themselves have been actively involved in different ways with death or the dying process.... in both a personal and a professional way.

You are invited to bring a picnic and wander the community woodlands at any point during the day.

There is no charge for the event but donations will be welcome to further the work of Confortia (a not-for-profit organisation).
